ACADEMIC PROJECT

Title: Bank Locker Security System Using QR Code Based Technology

Main motive of our project is to provide more security to the bank locker system . The advantage of using QR code base technology is more secure than other systems. This system consists of microcontroller, QR code scanner, QR code, keyboard and an electromagnetic locker. The QR code reader reads the information from the QR code and sends it to the microcontroller, if the id number is valid then, microcontroller check if the code and the details matches with the database of the customer then only the access to locker is given to the user. This system creates a log containing check-in and check-out of each user along with basic information of user.
